Community Paramedicine

Welcome to Community Paramedicine

What is Community Paramedicine?

Community Paramedics in BC are licensed Paramedics who use their skills in non-urgent settings - in patients' homes or community settings.

They focus on community outreach and awareness, health promotion that includes providing CPR and AED training sessions, and the provision of primary as well as palliative care.

Services Provided

You have been referred to the community paramedicine program by your family doctor or other health care professional. Your community paramedic will provide services as outlined in your care plan and as requested by the referring professional.

These services may include (but are not limited to):

- Checking blood pressure
- Assisting with diabetic care
- Helping to identify fall hazards in your home
- Medication self-management assessment
- Post-injury or illness evaluation
- Assisting with respiratory conditions.

Your community paramedic may not diagnose a medical condition, prescribe medications, or develop a treatment plan.

“Since she comes in, I started checking my blood sugar and haven't had high blood sugar. If I didn't have CP, I wouldn't be here today”.

“I feel safer because I know someone comes to check on me; I look after myself better”.
